

FURTHER OPTIONS

KFR can also provide access rights to the following financial information:

- Standing data

This will enable you to run a report summarising details such as the date of incorporation or creation of an entity, officers or trustees appointed, financial year-end and so on.

- Investment schedules

These can cover both quoted and unquoted investments held under a custody arrangement.

They summarise the security holdings by type, nominal holding, book-cost, date of purchase or sale, and market value – together with details of all corporate actions and income or dividends received.

- Exchange rates

We input a wide range of exchange rates daily so you can access and print them in report form.

- Trial balance and nominal ledger

TIMELY INFORMATION FOR EFFECTIVE WEALTH MANAGEMENT

Accurate, up-to-date knowledge about the financial positions of your assets is the essential prerequisite for good decision-making.

Key Financial Reporting (KFR) puts this information at your fingertips – in real time and in the format that is most helpful to you.

You and your professional advisors will have secure online access to the data you need, covering all your entities – on demand from anywhere in the world.

Recording, analysing and supplying this data is KFR's only business. So you can be confident that our reports will always be up-to-date.

A RANGE OF REPORTS

We can offer a range of reports to match most requirements – for example:

- Management accounts
- Monthly balance sheets
- Profit-and-loss statements
- Annual financial statements.

TRIAL BALANCE

The KFR team bookkeep all transactions on a daily basis. This ensures that the trial balance provides a snapshot of the financial position in real time.

You can use this tool to review historical financial information as well as the current position, viewing at a glance the breakdown of assets and liabilities along the single-line entries. These include data fields such as: bank accounts, managed portfolios, properties, investments (both quoted and unquoted) and loan accounts – to name a few.

By double-clicking on any of these items you will be able to view the account postings and dates of entry. This can prove helpful if you want to determine whether a payment has been made, an invoice settled, a valuation received – or simply to check the status of the bookkeeping completed to date.

FULL NOMINAL LEDGER

The full nominal ledger will summarise all the postings bookkept across each entity and convert them for you into a single report.

With this information to hand you can readily review all open positions, all bookkept items, treatment of entries, any reversals, correcting entries, batch numbers and the dates processed. This is effectively an audit trail of the bookkeeping work.
